TREATING PATIENTS WITH SUPERFICIAL VEIN REFLUX

Learn from experts how to establish an endovenous program

The endovenous treatment of patients with superficial vein reflux is a well described technique. To create best outcomes for your patients, it requires the understanding of several factors.

Within 3 webinar episodes, host Mr. Manjit Gohel and guest speakers will discuss about the following topics:

- Which patients will benefit most based on the current literature
- Which framework do I need to be able to treat my patients
- Which technologies and techniques are needed to perform the ablation successfully?
